Dandruff – A Common and Recurring Scalp Problem.

The Most Common Cause of Dandruff³:

The dandruff-causing fungus

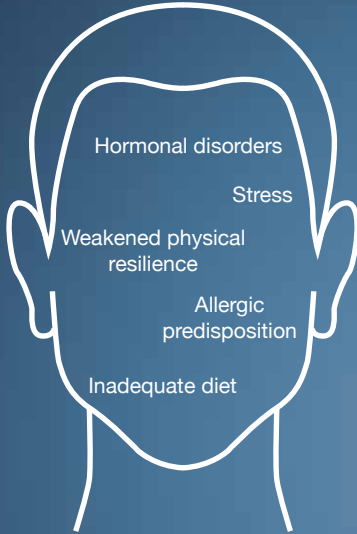

The most common cause of dandruff is a yeast-like fungus. Malassezia furfur occurs naturally in the microflora of the outer layer of the scalp at a concentration of up to 46% – in every person. Excessive growth of the fungus leads to dandruff, itching and redness of the scalp - this may lead to the so-called seborrheic dermatitis in severe cases.
